SENATE BARS BEER IN U. S. BUILDINGS

House, However, May Knock Out Prohibitory Clause in District Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP)—The bill which was to be the model beer law of the nation, to regulate distribution of the new 3.2 brew in the District of Columbia—stirred a new tempest today as the senate passed it with an amendment prohibiting sale in any government building whatever.

The amendment was voted, 44 to 28, just about the time that the administration chiefs made known they had no objections to beer sale at army and navy posts. President Roosevelt decided to leave the matter to the responsible secretaries. He required only that West Point and Annapolis do without. Also it is not expected to be sold aboard ships. Since the bill passed by the senate today must now go back to the house, many senators hoped that the federal building prohibition, which affects the capital restaurants, would be knocked out. Generally it was interpreted by them as applying to government buildings throughout the country, including military posts, though its author, Senator Gore, democrat, Oklahoma, said that was not his purpose.

Shortly before the beer measure was voted, the first big modification of the Volstead act had gone into force.

President Roosevelt signed a bill which ended the restrictions hitherto placed on the number of medicinal liquor prescriptions and the amount handed out.

The district beer bill would permit sale of beer and wine for consumption on the premises at hotels, restaurants and clubs. Provision for sale to motorists at "barbecue stands" and similar places was stricken from the bill by the senate.

Only bona fide restaurants which had been in business six months could dispense beer, and then only for consumption at tables.

An amendment by Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, to permit sale of the beverages at drug stores operating with restaurant licenses was rejected.

LEGAL BEER BY MAY 1 SEEN IN NORTH CAROLINA

RALEIGH, N. C., March 31.—(AP)—Legalized 3.2 per cent beer in North Carolina by May 1 moved a step nearer today as the state senate passed the Francis bill and sent it to the house by special messenger.

The roll call on final reading showed 35 senators for the measure and 13 against.

TENNESSEE GOVERNOR SIGNS REFERENDUM BILL

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 31.—(AP)—The bill providing for a referendum in Tennessee on the eighteenth amendment was signed today by Governor Hill McAlister.

It calls for an election July 20, when the state at large will select 63 delegates to a convention to decide for or against ratification of the proposed twenty-first amendment to the federal constitution repealing the eighteenth amendment. The convention is to be held in Nashville, August 11.

Each of the nine congressional districts will nominate seven candidates for delegates pledged to vote for ratification, seven pledged against ratification and seven with no opinion expressed. The third group was provided because of a state constitutional inhibition against a straight-out referendum on the prohibition question, legislators explained. Nominations will be made by petition.

FLORIDA SOLON PLANS TO SUPPORT BEER, WINE

FERNANDINA, Fla., March 31.—(AP)—A formal statement here today, State Senator J. B. Stewart said he would vote at the coming session of the legislature to legalize the manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent beer and wine in Florida.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS OFFER PEACE ON BEER

ALBANY, N. Y., March 31.—(AP)—After another flare-up in the assembly over conflicting views of republicans and democrats on state control of beer, a peace move to end the seemingly hopeless deadlock on the county licensing issue was made today by the republican leaders in the form of an offer to throw the whole problem out in conference.

Rehearing Is Asked On New Power Rates

MACON, Ga., March 31.—(AP)—Declaring that the recent reductions in Georgia Power Company rates ordered by the Georgia public service commission were not in proportion to the decrease in cost of labor and materials, a motion for a rehearing in the rate case was mailed to the commissioners this afternoon by the two Macon city attorneys, E. W. Maynard and Ellsworth Hall Jr.

The attorneys' motion declares they are contemplating bringing "action in court on behalf of the people with a view of modifying the judgment of the commission on the ground that the facts demand a lower rate than authorized by the judgment of the commission, which was recently rendered reducing the power rates less than 1 per cent."

2 Young Ohio Women Found Dead in Bed

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, March 31.—(AP)—Two young women were found dead in their bed in a fashionable West End apartment house here today. The pair, Mrs. Dorothy White McCormick, 18, of Portsmouth, and Miss Mariel Howard, 18, of Scioto Furnace, near here, had been dead at least 12 hours, authorities said.

The bodies were found, police related, by Walter George, 21, and Hiram Schmeller, 22, when they called to keep a date.

Investigators were at a loss immediately to explain the cause of death, but said they were inclined to favor a theory of poisoning.

Police said the bodies were found as if the two had died peacefully. The bed clothing was in order, they said, and there was no sign of a struggle.

Other residents of the apartment house said the young women were heard playing a piano in their suite until about 8:30 o'clock last night. Schmeller and George were held for questioning.

Ruth Judd Saws Bar In Effort To Escape

FLORENCE, Ariz., March 31.—(AP)—Warden A. G. Walker said today Winnie Ruth Judd, sentenced to death April 21 in the "trunk murder" case, cut through a bar of her cell at the state prison here about three weeks ago using a saw "given her by her brother," Burton McKinnell.

Warden Walker said a guard discovered Mrs. Judd in the act of sawing through the bars at night. Asked what she was doing, Walker said, she replied "she wanted to be ready if she had an opportunity to escape."

Guards are maintained over her cell day and night now, Walker added. He said she had "not really attempted to escape."

The warden said all information he had on the matter had been turned over to the county attorney, W. C. Truman. Truman was not in Florence today but Charles H. Reed, deputy county attorney, said that so far as he knew no warrant had been issued for McKinnell.

Mrs. Judd spent a quiet and restful night in her cell, apparently undisturbed by refusal of the board of pardons and paroles to commute her death sentence.

YOSUKE MATSUOKA
MEETS PRESIDENTNoted Japanese Diplomat
To Visit House and Senate Today.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP)—Yosuke Matsuoka, forceful, American-educated defender of Japan's cause in Manchuria, called on President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, of the state department, today and will visit the capitol tomorrow to meet Vice President Garner, Speaker Rainey and members of the senate and house committees which deal with foreign affairs.

Special interest attaches to Matsuoka's visit to Washington because of rumors that he soon may be minister of foreign affairs, or even premier of Japan, as a result of his struggle at Geneva to gain recognition for Manchukuo and his use of the manner in which he has set Japan's side of the Manchurian conflict before the world.

Matsuoka was with the president for about 15 minutes and chatted for the same length of time with Secretary Hull. The Japanese visitor said, however, that his calls were formal and that the Manchurian situation was not discussed by him with the American officials.

Matsuoka also called today on Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, and later had tea with William R. Castle Jr., former undersecretary of state, whom he knew when the latter served the United States as special ambassador to Japan.

The Japanese visitor will leave Washington tomorrow night for Detroit to make a study of the motor industry. He will also stop in Chicago on his way to the Pacific coast, where his alma mater, the University of Oregon, will confer on him an honorary degree before he sails from San Francisco for Japan.

JAPANESE OFFICIAL OF LEAGUE RESIGNS
GENEVA, Switzerland, March 31.—(AP)—Japan took another step in its rupture with the League of Nations today when Y. Sugimura, undersecretary general and director of the political section since 1927, terminated his service.

He will sail for Japan soon to report on the general political situation, including the status of the Pacific islands mandated to Japan, and the possibility of Japan's co-operating with the League.

CHINESE ATTACK SEEN AS CAUSE OF FIGHTING
CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 31.—(AP)—Lieutenant General Kuniaki Koiso, chief of staff of the Japanese army in Manchuria and reputed "brains" of the Jehol campaign, told the Associated Press today that continuing sporadic Chinese attacks along the Great Wall of China were only resulting in wanton and wholesale killing of Chinese lives and may bring on an extension of the Japanese occupation into North China proper.

Asked whether the Japanese army could avoid occupation of Peiping if the attacks continued, General Koiso said:

"It is impossible to ignore such challenges. But at the same time we must consider the international factors involved in the possible occupation of Peiping, as well as the risk to lives of Japanese, foreigners, and peaceful Chinese residents of the old capital." (There are 700 American civilians and 500 United States marines in Peiping.)

Sales Tax in Effect
In Illinois Today

CHICAGO, March 31.—(AP)—Ignoring a statewide injunction prohibiting its collection, Illinois puts into effect tomorrow a 3 per cent tax on retail sales.

Passed by the legislature as an emergency measure, the sales tax has been hailed by state government leaders as the only means of providing funds for unemployment relief.

It should, they have estimated, furnish about $10,000,000 a month to provide 312,000 needy families and thousands of individuals with the necessities of life.

Merchants have been instructed by the attorney general to retain all tax collections pending a ruling on the law by the higher courts. Most retailers plan to issue receipts with every purchase to facilitate refunding the tax if the law is found unconstitutional.

FLORIDA PAGEANT
TODAY TO FEATURE
ATLANTA DANCERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 31.—(AP)—The curtain will fall on St. Petersburg's fifteenth annual festival of states celebration tonight with presentation of the spectacular pageant "Triumph."

More than 1,000 persons will take part in the magnificent spectacle for which the cast has been rehearsing for several weeks under direction of Senia Solomonoff. The pageant, featuring Lola Menzeli, famous dancer, is expected to draw one of the largest crowds ever assembled at Waterfront park, training grounds of the Boston Braves baseball team.

Scores of horses will play a major role in the pageant, as Napoleon and his cavalry sweep down on Moscow.

Mr. Solomonoff and Miss Menzeli, who is his wife, have made their home in Atlanta for many years. They conduct a school of dancing here.

Talmadge To Ride Horse
In Memorial Day Parade

For the first time perhaps since reconstruction days, the governor of Georgia is going to ride a horse in a parade, Adjutant General Lindsey Camp, of Georgia, announced Friday.

General Camp said Governor Talmadge, an enthusiastic horseman, would ride in the Memorial Day parade next April 20.

"So far as I have heard, this is the first time the governor of Georgia has ridden a horse in a parade since the days of General Gordon," General Camp said. "The governor will command the first division—the military division—of the parade."

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 1, 1933.

A MAJOR OPERATION NEEDED.

The recent "do nothing" session of the Georgia legislature is taken by the Asheville Citizen as the text for an editorial in which it points out that now, as seldom before, there is urgent necessity for "legislatures made up of the best brains and character which a state can produce."

The Citizen cites that in years gone by, when governmental debts were small, tax problems simple and government not as complex as it is now, the labors of the average legislature were comparatively easy and their duties simple.

Now the development of government service and the complexities of public finances has changed this situation and the Citizen feels that—

"The public at large, not only in Georgia but in other states as well, has been able to realize the enormous increase in power—for good or for harm—of state legislatures and of those who are elected to these legislatures."

Georgia, if the verdict of the press of that state can be accepted, has just had a severe lesson. It is pointed out, however, by the new conditions. We do not doubt that Georgia has had driftwood legislatures before now. The difference is that no state can today afford such a legislature.

If the people of Georgia are taking this in and if it drives them to a revaluation of legislative service and of the qualifications essential to that service they will have learned something that the people of every southern state cannot learn too quickly.

If that lesson is learned by the people of Georgia the incompetence and the lack of proper steps for the relief of the people, the wrangling and politicking which marked the last session of the general assembly, will not have been in vain.

It often takes a major operation to cure an ailment of long standing, suddenly grown acute. If the culmination of politics-ridden legislatures in the present aggregation of incompetents results in an awakening of the people to the vital necessity of a legislative house-cleaning, the state will be the gainer.

In a communication appearing on this page, Director Gossnell, of the Emory University Institute of Citizenship, stresses the need of a uniform program for better government in Georgia, featured by the election of "honest, fearless and able candidates."

If Georgia is to be freed from the governmental shackles from which it is now suffering, men of that calibre must be chosen for the general assembly.

The voters must realize that there is but one certain remedy to the problem of bad government, and that remedy lies at the polls.

A MESSAGE OF CONFIDENCE.

The average citizen will find satisfaction and a sense of comfort in a message of faith and optimism such as that contained in the interview given in Atlanta by Elwood E. Rice, LL.D., founder and president of the Rice Leaders of the World Association, an organization now numbering among its members many of the outstanding manufacturers of the United States.

Dr. Rice feels that "confidence is restored and fear has been removed. We know that our money is safe, and our government has declared fundamental principles that are already constructively working."

The intimate and widespread connection of this business leader with the industry and trade of the country enables him to base on a firm foundation his belief that business has entered a steady, healthy and natural growth. It is a belief that should be encouraging to every business interest in Atlanta.

Already Atlanta has felt the steadying and strengthening effect of the nation-wide increase in confidence, and it is certain that the distribution on April 1 of more than $3,000,000 in Georgia in quarterly dividend checks will give a faster twist to the wheels of industry and business.

With such a prospect, expressions of optimism such as that of Dr. Rice are certain to strike a responsive chord everywhere.

AN INVALUABLE CIVIC ASSET.

The inestimable value to a city of banks conducted on sound and safe principles of banking is illustrated in the experience of Camden, N. J., where no depositor has lost a dollar since the first bank was established in 1812.

The preservation of this remarkable record, despite the wisdom with which Camden's banks have been operated, has not always been easy, mainly because of the infiltration of practices followed by unethical banks in other cities.

During the present economic upset, one of the Camden banks became seriously involved through the collapse of a bank in a neighboring city with which it was closely allied. Its deposits were quickly underwritten by the two largest banks in the city and not a dollar was lost to a depositor.

Camden's banking history is filled with such instances, with the strong being able to come to the rescue of the weak because, on the whole, sound and ethical principles marked the operation of all the city's financial institutions—principles that made the confidence of the depositors an invaluable asset to these banks.

This remarkable record has been sustained, according to Secretary Odner, of the Camden County Chamber of Commerce, because—

Camden's strong banks realized that the preservation of privately operated banking in America depends upon the strong banks protecting the system through assuming, if necessary, the obligations of their weaker brethren, in so far as the depositors are concerned—and because Camden banks, as much as was humanly possible, endeavored to confine themselves strictly to a banking business for the benefit of local business.

No city in the United States is more fortunate in the strength of its banks, their devotion to the highest ethics of sound banking, and the confidence of their patrons, than Atlanta.

The men at their head have realized that banking service to local business should be the dominating principle for a commercial bank, and they have made these banks veritable Rocks of Gibraltar in the banking world.

The invulnerability of Atlanta's banks has made it possible for the business of the city to go forward with confidence during a most trying period, and in turn the faith and confidence of the people have enabled the banks to surely and safely preserve the stability of financial conditions in the city.

The people of Atlanta have much to be thankful for that their great banking institutions are being conducted on the wise lines laid down by the able and conservative pioneer bankers who long ago launched the institutions which have become the cornerstone of southern finance.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

A Frog's Emotion.

Among the queer questions put to government departments (which must be used to answering queer questions, as well as asking them) a recent poser of a United States citizen should take a high place. This gentleman wrote up to inquire how far a frog can jump. The question, he said, "had troubled him for years and he wanted an authoritative ruling. The matter was referred to the bureau of fisheries, which presumably withdrew its attention for a moment from considering the migration of whales in order to get busy with a few frogs and an inch-tape."

After long excogitation and experiment a solution was obtained. An "ordinary" frog, it is stated, under "normal conditions" can leap three feet, under "deep emotion" five feet, while if the frog is "under deep emotion with a firm footing" it can jump six feet. One wonders how the precise depth of frog emotions was estimated. But there seems to be a moral in this somewhere, and for "firm footing" to "look before you leap," no doubt. But just think how much further some agile politicians, let us say, could manage to leap if they added the assurance of "firm footing" to their no-doubt already "deep emotion."

DAY BY DAY

In Georgia's History

Sixteen years ago today the Hancocks Automobile Plant opened in Atlanta.

On April 4, 1787, John Wesley began the study of what language, for what reason?

For the two best original 50-word answers to the foregoing question, see the "Day by Day" column.

The "Metrolite White House" is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, starring Walter Huston, Karen Morley and Franchot Tone, and is now playing at Loew's Grand.

HOTELS TO GIVE ROOMS TO SOLONS

"broke" him. Representatives Fred Jones, of Lumpkin; Fred Scott, of Thomas, and Will Stokes, of Twiggs, and a host of others, had previously agreed to serve in a payless session. Senator Morris, of Pearson, said he is ready to vote on the question, but does not feel that he can afford to attend a session without pay.

Representative Rogers, of Spalding, opposed a special session on the ground that other matters are pressing. Representative Flynn, said that a session should be delayed until a relief program for the school system is worked out. Representative Cartledge, of Lanier, of Richmond, the former sponsor of a beer bill in the last session.

Circulars asking for views on the beer question were being distributed Friday by Mays Badgett, of 59 1/2 Pryor street, N. E., who said that "I want to know who is running the state of Georgia. Our president is for beer and so are the great states of New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Missouri, California and others. What about Georgia? Have the people been heard?"

The hotel men met at the Ansley hotel and authorized W. G. Hastings, of the Ansley, to give Governor Talbot an offer of a special session for the purpose of passing on the beer question. Hastings told the hotel men that without beer in Georgia they would suffer severe losses as the state will lose a great deal of money in which the brew will be sold. Each week will see an exodus to adjoining states, ruining Georgia's resort business. Hastings said, James H. Hastings, of the Ansley, said that the beer business of hotels would be increased 100 per cent by legislation of beer in Georgia.

Circulation of petitions for a special session continued in Athens. Legislative experts said that the only way an extra session can be called is through the governor, under the constitution, and that the governor should call an extra session on a call of three-fourths of the legislators, there is no such provision in Georgia law.

Speaker Ed Rivers has announced his intention to call a special session, but he declined to take part in any controversy over the question.

The Ansley, Henry Grady, Imperial Hotel, Robert Fulton, and the Kimball House joined in the offer. The management of the Wincoff, one of a number of hotels owned by the Ansley, said that the management of the company would have to be consulted before action could be taken.

Fort McPherson and other army posts in Georgia will be as dry as the surrounding civilian territory when beer returns to many states on April 7 under the federal act, according to announcement in Washington. Sale of beer will be allowed at army posts only in states where beer can be sold under state laws, and beer will be barred from naval craft at sea, it was said.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise:
Frequently I hear you express scorn of the sissy, and I quite agree with your conviction that the species is a total loss—both male and female.

But the fact that a thief has red hair doesn't indicate that all red-heads are thieves, and that kind of logic will cost you the friendship of everybody worthwhile if you use it in judging character.

The sissy isn't good. He is merely goody-good. His character is passive, like that of a hen. He has no Mark Twain expressed in him, no more sex than a tapeworm. He escapes the doing of evil because he hasn't enough fire in him to attract a temptation. And it is not a virtue to have no appetite.

But don't make yourself ridiculous by scorning the good. They are the pick of humanity.

Which develops the greater strength—one who drifts down stream on a raft or one who rows up-stream in a boat? The moral strength that makes character is developed by fighting—not by drifting.

The easy way is to follow every whim and surrender to every appetite—to go with the crowd and accept the guidance of chance and desire. Self-denial to develop an athlete, and precisely the same system is required to build manhood and womanhood.

Every normal individual must fight and conquer himself to achieve goodness; and the greater his vitality and passion and power, the more he must struggle to overcome temptation.

Believe me, my dear, a manly man who comes through the struggle unblemished has a will of steel and the heart of a lion. The modern theory that natural impulses shouldn't be repressed is silly and vile. Lust is more "natural" than the impulse to steal or kill. Every quality that makes our race decent is a result of conquering natural impulses.

One who conquers is no sissy. He may avoid things the sissy avoids, but his goodness is a badge of honor won only by those who have licked the world, the flesh and the devil.

Love, DAD.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

WASHINGTON, Cal., March 31.—Hollywood, Cal., March 31.—Clara Bow doesn't think so much of Europe. It was all very fine, but... at least seven requests for interviews with her by the press, and she must have a postmark not later than midnight tomorrow.

European clothes didn't dazzle her. "She said 'Buy American' on the train for one thing. She has a firm conviction that Hollywood-made clothes are more to her liking any way. She did buy a rust-colored coat—very handsome, very luxurious and very becoming. And all that husband Rex Bell bought was two cuckoo clocks in Switzerland to go in his farmhouse."

To see the climax the European beauty parlor put some sort of chemical in Clara's hair which did things to her flaming glory. And the famous red-head picture which she has been making is a result. That's something pretty hard to forgive. But Clara Bow, getting ready to make more pictures in a secluded spot in Hollywood, laughs it all off. There's a little reduction to be done because... well, European food is something to think about even with "Buy American" on your mind.

Charles "Buddy" Rogers is quite a guy. He comes back into pictures just as music comes back into vogue. But Charles Rogers, who is as popular as a box office personality. His first picture, "Song of the Eagle," will have nothing to do with music, however—it's a beer picture and was started under the name "Five Cents a Glass"—which seems to be a better name than the new one. But all producers change the titles of pictures during the making—a proceeding which has come to be "Hoyle" in Hollywood.

A very good actor was given a very good part with a very good salary attached to it. He had to provide his own wardrobe. He had a three months' old tuxedo and a three months' old tailcoat. He had his own smart suit made by same, that he hadn't worn yet.

Imagine his consternation to find that the tailor on the picture insisted that he have an "entire new wardrobe" made at a certain local tailor. Tailor's prices were frightfully high. Actor went to the "tup" and asked him to look at his tuxedo and "tails" as they were finer than could be had here and brand-new. But the "tup" waved him aside and insisted that he have everything brand new from the tailor specified, although the actor protested the prices as being unfair.

Now the actor discovers that he is really working in the picture for the fun of it: wardrobe orders have taken all the profit out of the job. And he is wondering just what spirit that the method of reason of the tailor with the outrageous prices.

Just one of the little details that have left Hollywood in its present state of demoralization.

Need for Unified Better Government Program Is Stressed by Gossnell

Editor Constitution: I thoroughly agree with your appraisal of the "late" legislature.

What is the remedy in Georgia? I venture to offer the following suggestions for improvement of the situation in Georgia today:

1. We need a unified program. Honest, fearless, able candidates should run for governor with very careful worked-out and definite programs, and the same type of men should offer for the legislature on the platform of the gubernatorial candidates.

2. Let us have a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates. If this were done, the new legislature would be a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates.

3. Let us have a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates. If this were done, the new legislature would be a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates.

4. Let us have a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates. If this were done, the new legislature would be a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates.

5. Let us have a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates. If this were done, the new legislature would be a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates.

6. Let us have a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates. If this were done, the new legislature would be a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates.

7. Let us have a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates. If this were done, the new legislature would be a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates.

8. Let us have a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates. If this were done, the new legislature would be a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates.

9. Let us have a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates. If this were done, the new legislature would be a legislature with a platform of the gubernatorial candidates.

COURT UPHEAUS IN ALABAMA FIRE

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

Defense Move Lost by Counsel for 'Scottsboro' Negroes.

DECATUR, Ala., March 31.—(AP) Judge James E. Horton, presiding in Morgan circuit court today, denied a motion to quash the venire for the trial of Heywood Patterson, 19-year-old Chattanooga negro, setting the stage for the new trial of the youth on charges of attacking a white woman two months ago. A jury was drawn quickly and taking of testimony was set for Monday.

The decision came after Attorney General Thomas E. Knight had informed the court the rest of the state's rebuttal witnesses would offer cumulative testimony to show that negroes were not "systematically and arbitrarily" excluded from jury duty solely because of race.

The negro is one of nine indicted for an attack on two girls aboard a Southern railway freight train in Jackson county two years ago, when since has become known as "the Scottsboro case." The nine were tried and sentenced to death.

The decision ended three and a half days of the defense efforts to have predicated for an appeal to the United States supreme court.

In denying the motion to quash the venire, Judge Horton held that the absence of negroes from the venire, as shown by the jury rolls was not a violation of the constitutional right of the defendant under the fourteenth amendment. That question had been at issue throughout the trial, first in the motion to quash the indictment, which was overruled Tuesday, and later in the motion to set aside the venire.

The defense filed exceptions to both decisions.

A. O. Almon, Decatur attorney, today was added to the defense counsel to aid in striking the jury. He joined Joseph R. Brodsky, of New York, and George W. Chamblee, of Chattanooga, whom the International Labor Defense employed earlier in the case. Samuel S. Liebowitz, chief of defense counsel, voluntarily joined the attorneys later at the invitation of the International Labor Defense.

The jury is as follows: Eugene D. Baird, Jr., of Decatur, draftsman, foreman; John J. Bryant, of Falkville, farmer; Eddie Edwards, of Decatur, filling station operator; Wilbur L. Grimes, Decatur, bookkeeper; Robert L. Landers, Decatur, unemployed; James E. Stewart, Jr., of Hartselle, merchant; J. Foreman, of Danvers, farmer; Cecil Crawford, of Decatur, barber; Cecil Crawford, of Jopka, farmer; John Davis, of Decatur, bookkeeper; Eugene D. Baird, Jr., of Decatur, draftsman, foreman; John J. Bryant, of Falkville, farmer; Eddie Edwards, of Decatur, filling station operator; Wilbur L. Grimes, Decatur, bookkeeper; Robert L. Landers, Decatur, unemployed; James E. Stewart, Jr., of Hartselle, merchant; J. Foreman, of Danvers, farmer; Cecil Crawford, of Decatur, barber; Cecil Crawford, of Jopka, farmer; John Davis, of Decatur, bookkeeper; Eugene D. Belmont Mansion To Be Apartment

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP)—Trustees of the Perry Belmont estate sought permission in supreme court here today to convert the 45-room Belmont mansion, 1618 N. W. Washington, D. C., into an apartment house. The trustees, the New York Trust Company and Wilton J. Lamport, obtained an order from Justice Edward J. Glennon requiring Raymond Belmont, of Middlebury, Va.; Morgan Belmont, of Westbury, N. Y.; August Belmont, of New York city; and other heirs to show cause next Tuesday why the permission should not be granted. The mansion was built in 1906 at a cost of $800,000 and has been unoccupied since 1929. The petition said taxes totaling approximately $30,000 for 1930 through 1933 are due and unpaid.

The trustees said they seek to make six apartments of the house because of its size and the changed character of the neighborhood makes it impossible to sell or rent it. Permission of the adjoining property-holders has been obtained.

Everest Expedition Finds High Air Calm

Copyright, 1933, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.
PURNEA, India, March 31.—(By Wire)—With high winds preventing flying today, Air Commodore P. F. M. Fellowes, leader of the Mount Everest flight expedition, and Colonel L. V. S. Blacker, chief observer, devoted four hours to experimental infra-red photography in expeditions in a plane in the neighborhood of Mount Kanchenjunga. The important aspect of this flight was the revelation there was an absence of bumps over the mountains at the greatest height of the hop. In the hottest hours of the day the bumps were experienced up to 9,000 feet, but thereafter the airplane was in calm air though often less than 4,000 feet over the mountain. This is regarded by Commodore Fellowes as a good omen for the main flight over Mount Everest.

MIAMI, Fla., March 31.—(AP)—Just as he was to be placed on trial, Harry Sidmor, alleged jewel thief, changed his mind again today, and told court officials he wanted to plead guilty to the charges against him. Judge E. C. Collins, of criminal court, said he would accept the plea tomorrow, and decide upon Sidmor's sentence.

Signs of Upturn Noted At Chemical Meeting

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Signs of business upturn. All attendance records of the American Chemical Society's long record of 80 meetings were broken by a registration of more than 2,300 at the meeting here this week. Twenty graduate chemists from a nearby university piled into old cars and came to talk to the "big shot" industrial chemists. In three days three of them landed jobs. The others have prospects. The shrewd professor who told the boys to take this chance said that six months ago the industrialists wouldn't even have taken time to talk jobs.

HALL FUND QUOTA GIVEN BY PICKENS

Third Georgia County Goes 'Over Top' in Drive To Raise $100,000.

The third county to go "over the top" in the campaign to raise $100,000 for Georgia Hall at the Warm Springs Foundation was announced Friday when a check for $300 was received from Sam Tate, of Tate, chairman of the Pickens county committee. Other counties previously reporting their quotas subscribed were Meriwether and Troup, both of which more than doubled their quota.

With the approaching end of the first week of earnest work in the campaign at hand, leaders in the drive to honor Franklin D. Roosevelt and to prepare adequate dormitories for upward of 100 patients at Warm Springs, expressed satisfaction with progress made. Enthusiasm was evident in all sections although the total donations to date had not been figured.

The gift of $600 from Pickens county followed closely announcements of gifts of $1,000 from the Straus brothers, of New York, and $1,000 by men and officers at Fort Benning.

A donation of $100 was made Friday by C. A. Wickham, president of the Atlanta & West Point railroad. Several other smaller contributions were received.

Cason J. Callaway, of LaGrange, chairman of the campaign, in a telephone conversation with Cator Woodford, vice chairman and chairman of the Atlanta group, said committee men and women were working industriously in all counties.

Mr. Woodford was planning to call another meeting of his Atlanta committee for early in the week when plans will be laid to complete Atlanta's quota within a few days.

Georgia Hall will be designed as a central unit around which other structures will be erected at Warm Springs. It was conceived as a fitting tribute to the leadership and humanitarian qualities of President Roosevelt who has done much for the foundation.

Minister's Alibi Is Fishing Trip

MUNCIE, Ind., March 31.—(AP)—Testimony today at the trial of Rev. G. Lemuel Conway on a charge of attempting to attack an 18-year-old Sunday school teacher was devoted to building up the alibi presented for the accused pastor. His attorneys indicated he might testify tomorrow.

From several members of a crowd that had congregated in Charles Williams' plumbing shop to discuss a hunting and fishing trip, there came evidence in support of the minister's defense.

Williams and the others declared he was in the shop between the hours of 2 p. m. and 4 p. m., on the afternoon of last December 29. The accused of the minister has testified that between these hours Mr. Conway took her automobile-driving ten miles into the country and attempted to attack her.

$5,000 Violin Vanishes From Baltimore Home

BALTIMORE, March 31.—(AP)—Police were searching today for a seventeenth century violin, valued at $5,000, which was reported to have vanished mysteriously from a cupboard in the home of Joseph A. Custer, a cousin of the famous Indian fighter, who described the instrument as a Cremona violin made in 1613 which had been in his family for many years. It had lain untouched in the cupboard, supposedly, for many months, until a discussion of rare violins led members of the family to look for it. When the cupboard door was opened the violin was gone.

'SHOWDOWN' SEEN ON STEINER CLINIC

Trustees of Unit Conferencing on Dobbs' Suggestions To Break Contract.

Early "showdown" on operation of the Steiner cancer ward was predicted Friday in city hall circles. Grady hospital board members will insist that Steiner come under the jurisdiction of the board, just as are other divisions of Grady, or that the unit be turned over to the Steiner trustees for operation without contributions for operation and maintenance from the city, it was learned. In the event the Steiner trustees elect to take over the institution and operate it independently, the city would agree to furnish water, lights and heat free, but would make no actual money contributions, it was reported.

Joseph Hirsch and Milton Liebman, two of the Steiner trustees, held an informal conference Friday afternoon, but no definite course of action was determined. Liebman announced. Another conference probably will be held today. Grady board members met during the day, it was announced by Samuel C. Dobbs Sr., chairman, but the Steiner matter was not considered, as it is considered "still premature." No further meeting of the board is anticipated until after council acts on a revised city budget, which trims allocations to Grady by $40,000. Council will consider the budget Monday.

None of those in authority would discuss the probable adjustment of the Steiner ward, reopened Thursday when it became known that Dobbs had approved Mayor James L. Key of a recommendation that the Steiner contract be abrogated and that it be taken over by the city. Dobbs claims this would save about $25,000 a year.

GARIBALDI BOUT PROMISES ACTION

Gino Garibaldi and Frank Brunowicz, heavyweight wrestling champions of Italy and Poland respectively, tie up in the final match of Henry Weber's next card at the auditorium Tuesday night and should put a battle equal in excitement and thrills to those which have already been offered Atlanta mat patrons this season.

Brunowicz has not appeared here in some time but is remembered as a powerful and willing grappler who can both hand out and take punishment in large quantities.

Garibaldi has shown here three times in the past year and has become a favorite with local fans. The shift Italian made his debut some months ago by manhandling the gigantic Willie Davis and pinning him in impressive fashion. More recently he gained a decision over Whitey Hewitt, the Canadian bad man, when the latter was disqualified for persistent fouling, and followed this up with a victory over Tom Marvin.

Another match, also set for two falls in three, will bring together Jack Zarnow, the temperamental Greek from Ohio University, and Sid Nabors, 215-pound Missourian. These boys are well matched from every angle, and should stage a combat worth witnessing.

Tickets for the card are on sale at the Piedmont Hatters and the Miner & Carter Drug Company.

Sunday's workouts along with all others slated for 10 o'clock each morning will be free to the public. The free workouts will include those during the week of the 1933-34 season.

More than a dozen horses are scheduled to arrive today and will participate in the Sunday workout and some 3000 horses will be in the Saturday night and early Sunday.

DUNLAP LEADS AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., March 31.—(AP)—George T. Dunlap Jr., slender Long Island golfer, took a run-away lead over a field of more than 100 competitors in the first 18 holes of qualifying play today in the 33rd annual north and south amateur tournament. The former Princeton star toured the No. 2 championship course in 33-32—65, six strokes under par, and seven strokes better than the best of the others.

James A. Fownes, of Pittsburgh, was in second place with 36-36—72, one over par, and one stroke back of him came Jimmy Robbins of Philadelphia, and Tommy Goodwin, Monroe, N. Y., with identical scores of 36-34—70.

The defending champion, M. Pierpont Warner, of New Haven, a Yale golfer, was far down the list with 36-41—77.

Only 29 of the entries broke 80. The day was clear but a brisk wind swept over the course at times. The second 18 holes of qualifying play will take place tomorrow, and the top 32 will be paired in match play for the championship, which will be decided in a 36-hole match next Friday.

Dunlap, member of the Walker Cup team and twice national inter-collegiate champion, strayed from par but once on the entire round, taking a 40 on the par 3 fourth. On the 401-yard sixth hole, he carded an eagle when he hit a No. 3 iron shot to within three feet of the cup.

His 65 today sets an amateur record for the course. The open record is held by Joe Turney, of Elmford, N. Y., who toured it in 64, a mark equaled by Tommy Armour, the black stock, in a practice round. Dunlap's score today was 66.

The round gave the blonde sharpshooter from Garden City a record for being ten under par for his last three rounds over the course. In the 1932-33 season, he was 10 under in his last two rounds in 69-69. He finished that tournament as top amateur with a 72-hole score of 287, which placed him above many of the country's leading professionals.

GEORGIANS A CAPITAL TO URGE CANAL PLAN

Two Routes Proposed for Barge or Ship Channel From Ocean to Gulf.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, March 31.—Encouraged by the favorable attitude recently indicated by President Roosevelt, members of the Georgia canal commission arrived in Washington today for a series of conferences with congressional leaders and administration officials looking to the early adoption of the Atlantic-to-the-Gulf project.

The new chief executive is reported to have informed some of his confidantes that he is prepared to recommend either a barge or a ship canal across Georgia and northern Florida, providing a survey now being undertaken by army engineers shows the project to be capable of yielding in a reasonable interest plus moderate sinking fund requirements.

Members of the commission arriving in Washington today to press the canal included T. Guy Woolford, chairman of the commission; E. George Butler, of Savannah, treasurer, and Howard E. Coffin, of Sapelo Island. They were joined here by Charles S. Barrett and former Assistant Secretary of Labor Murray W. Garrison, members of the commission.

H. N. Randolph, of Atlanta, counsel for the commission, is also here.

Several routes have been suggested for the proposed canal, including at least four in northern Florida and one connecting both Georgia and Florida. The latter project would start at the St. Mary's river marking the boundary between the two states, and extend the Gulf of Mexico to St. George's sound in Florida. It will be the purpose of the Georgia commission to vigorously urge the adoption of this route.

Chairman Woolford and his associates revealed, however, that they intend to press for a barge instead of a ship canal, believing the former would result in more benefit to the state than the latter. The barge canal, according to the best estimates available, would cost upwards of $115,000,000, whereas a ship canal would be estimated at $400,000,000 to $500,000,000.

President Roosevelt is represented as being willing to go so far as to recommend a ship canal if the project is found feasible.

"Construction of a large canal," said Mr. Woolford, "would lead to the development of large terminal facilities at St. Mary's and Brunswick and would open up the entire coast of the state to a ship canal, which would not require elaborate terminal development."

All members of the Georgia commission, however, are over the prospects for obtaining action in the light of the president's indicated stand and are determined to present a strong argument in favor of selecting the Georgia route. If President Roosevelt recommends the project he will probably include it as a part of the great public works program he is planning to present to congress for industrial and employment relief.

Although its findings are yet to be made public, the army engineers have already completed a survey of the several routes proposed and are now engaged in an economic study of the canal in an effort to determine what the revenue it will yield in tolls. The project is expected to base his recommendation largely on these findings.

The regular Saturday classes will continue each week through the spring and summer months.

MAN IS PLACED IN JAIL FOR KIDNAPING IN 1886

Accused Man Denies He Is Individual Wanted; Has-beas Corpus Begun.

GLENNVILLE, Ga., March 31.—(AP)—A school-boy argument 47 years ago which terminated fatally for one of the participants was echoed here today when a man was arrested who says he is innocent of the slaying and immediately instituted habeas corpus proceedings to secure his release.

Alfred Reddish was the boy who was stabbed to the heart with a pen-knife in 1886. A grand jury indictment charged Joe Smiley with the slaying. The man arrested says he is Harlan Chapman.

After he was placed in jail at Reidsville he was called for an attorney and retained Judge O. L. Cowart, of the city court. After hearing his client's story Judge Cowart instituted habeas corpus proceedings before Superior Court Judge J. Saxton Daniel, who assigned the hearing for April 6.

Chapman came to live in Glennville about a year and a half ago. He was a school teacher and was well known in the community. He was arrested on the complaint of Millegie Reddish and Mrs. Georgiana Ziegler, brother and sister of the dead youth, he had the man known as Chapman arrested under the old indictment charges. Deputy Sheriff DuBoise made the arrest.

The man arrested issued a statement saying: "I am at a loss to understand why I was arrested and charged with this crime. I am not Joe Smiley nor have I ever heard of him. He claimed to have been reared in Whitewater, Ky."

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR SENATOR POTTLE

ALBANY, Ga., March 31.—(AP)—Former governors, justices of the supreme court, justices of the court of appeals, the president of the state senate and some 300 or more other prominent Georgians came here today to join at the First Methodist church in paying last tribute to Judge James Robert Pottle, who died on a Central of Georgia railway train early Wednesday while en route to a Savannah hospital.

In accordance with the oft-expressed wish of Judge Pottle, the services were marked by the utmost simplicity. Rev. Reese Griffin, pastor of the church, read the formal burial service and offered a prayer. Mrs. R. E. McCormack sang "Lead Kindly Light."

Downtown traffic was halted while the funeral procession, one of the largest ever seen in Albany, moved through the city.

Judge Pottle was born in Warren, Ga., January 6, 1875, and during his 58 years of life had earned the reputation of being one of Georgia's greatest lawyers. He held the position of chief justice of the Georgia court of appeals, from which he retired voluntarily to re-enter the practice of law in Albany in 1914, when he formed a partnership with J. Hofmeyer, who died in 1929.

After his partner's death, Judge Pottle formed the firm of Hofmeyer, Pottle, Farkas & Cobb, the law firm being Georgia's former governor and former United States senator.

Folly Island

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS. Bart Burgess, while unroofed in a catboat on Peconic bay, 50 miles from his Long Island home in Wytheville, meets a girl in a canoe who lives on a nearby island. Bart learns that she is one of the Bayleys, who have lived in seclusion on Folly Island 15 years. The father travels. Less than a week later Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, dies suddenly from a heart attack. He confesses in a letter left for Bart to be a bigamist. The Bayleys of Folly Island are his second family. They know him as Matthew Bayley. He says Bart, for his invalid mother's sake, to guard the secret, and have a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs. Bayley, posing as a lawyer, and finds her a lovely woman. She tells him, in confidence, that Alice Bayley, Matthew Bayley's daughter, when Bart rescues her from Alice he resolves to stay away from Folly Island. He becomes engaged to Lora Sackett, a distant relative and recent divorcee. The Bayleys visit New York and Bart sees them. Ingalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new-made fortune known as "Nosey Inny," has invited Alice to Wytheville. Bart tells Alice of his engagement and her mother is guests of the Warrens for the annual Wytheville flower show. Alice sees a photograph of Trevor Burgess. Bart suspects his Aunt Augusta and Inny Warren of something. He goes to the secret and inviting the Bayleys to Wytheville to come to the Queensborough bridge. The man he missed by an inch stopped to swear at him. Bart caught himself laughing. What little things annoy people when they have nothing important on their minds. . . .

A black dog seemed to be tagging at his heels that day of waiting back in Wytheville. The whisky taken in large quantities on the night before, had done him, of course, no good. But it gave him a long, slow morning sleep, which was merciful. He found himself avoiding his mother's worried eyes; when she questioned him his answers were terse and gruff. Why wasn't he down at the office? The office could get along without him for a while. Did he see Lora in town? No, he wasn't going to night clubs just now. . . .

Aunt Augusta's heavy presence loomed over him; but when he tried to talk to her alone he found that she was on another of her expeditions, visiting florists in Hicksville or shopping for her favorite health food. Toward midnight he walked the streets, joining the footstep crowd which seems forever to be moving along Broadway, drawn like foolish insects by the bravery of electric lights. He might have called up Lora, for he knew that she would be staying in Elsie Pritchard's apartment. But she seemed to be oceans and seas removed from him now. She was somebody he had met in a dream, kissed lightly and forgotten. But Alice was as real to him as the air in his lungs, or the blood in his veins. Alice lost, sucked in by the dusty breath of Manhattan. . . .

Finally he went to the Brook Club which, as it boasts, flows forever like Tennyson's brook, always babbling on, day and night. He was popular there, and they wanted him to play pool; but he preferred to be in a high chair watching the game. At his elbow sat a quart bottle of Scotch, its contents steadily reducing as the night wore into morning. . . .

Drink it out and forget it. That was his quiet, insane philosophy, as he went back to his car and turned it toward one of the bridges which span the North river. He should have stayed in town and gone to the office, as usual. To hell with the office. He went through the early morning crowd, concentrated on his gearshift. Funny, he thought, that people say you can't drive well when you're right. He took miraculous chances, wheeling up to the Queensborough bridge. The man he missed by an inch stopped to swear at him. Bart caught himself laughing. What little things annoy people when they have nothing important on their minds. . . .

Bart Burgess got through his day, as criminals do before the hour of execution. There was dinner, he remembered, mother watching him closely. . . .

Bart Burgess went back to his room, still carrying the funny little murderer he had put in his hip pocket. He was tormented with the knowledge that he was no longer alone with the secret which he had borne so long, like the Spartan boy's wolf, tearing and clawing, refusing to be strangled. More keenly still he felt it in the night, when his bed was like burning pitch; he who used to sleep like a soldier dreamed and woke, dreamed and woke. . . .

In the hot stillness of early September he stole downstairs in his pajamas and walked under the moon. Barefooted, the dewy grass gave him comfort. At the still hour when even the tree toads were resting, their voices against the rough bark of the pin oaks he wandered beneath the shadowing branches, glad of his little freedom. He had the consolation of a fugitive; the moments of escape were bright and precious to him. . . .

He imagined that Alice was still there in the big house over the hill and wondered what would happen if he strolled cross-streets to the Warren grounds and saw a light, sparking on and off, as he did at a bedroom window. "Alice," he would cry softly. Or maybe he would throw pebbles against her pane. She would come down barefooted as he was to walk beside him on the cool grass. Then very gently he could tell her why he had been cruel, why he had kept the secret from her during all the months when they had played together on Folly Island. . . .

Of all the ghosts that might have arisen in this solitary wandering Trevor Burgess was the most important. It should have been mother's voice, or even Lora's, to come now and give him comfort. But that was there, the laughing, bustling, common sense. Women like trouble. Don't let them bother you too much. Pick your own course and go ahead. "Wear," Bart said under his breath, arguing with himself and his father, until the

Information

CLOSING HOURS
Want Ads are accepted up to 9 p. m. for publication the next day. The closing hour for the Sunday edition is 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

CLASSIFIED RATES
Daily and Sunday rates per line for consecutive insertions:
One line 10 cents
Three lines 25 cents
Seven lines 50 cents
Minimum 2 lines (12 words).

In estimating the space of an ad figure six average words to a line. Ads ordered for three or seven days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of lines the ad actually occupied and no extra charge for the number of lines it would have occupied had it run to expiration.
Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The Constitution will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

All want ads are restricted to their proper classification and the Constitution reserves the right to refuse or reject any advertisement.

Ads ordered by telephone are accepted from persons listed in the telephone or city directory on memorandum charge only. In return for this courtesy the advertiser is expected to remit promptly.

TARZAN THE APE MAN No. 6

Jane Parker smiled a bit sadly as he answered his daughter's playful banter. "I'm afraid you'll have to go back—in any case!" "SHALL I?" she replied. "You watch me. No, darling, I've done with civilization. From now on I'm a savage, just like you."

"We'll talk about that later," said Parker. "Now let me look at you. Attractive! Darned attractive. Don't know how I managed it." he laughed. Both looked up, as Benish, the cockney houseman, entered with a telegram and a packet of stores. "Cable for you, sir."

Taking the message Parker said: "Look who's arrived, Benish!" In his surprise, Benish dropped everything. "H'o Benish," said Jean. "It isn't—I'll be damned—Miss Jean! Whatever are you doing in this God-forsaken hole?"

"How are you, Benish?" she continued. "O'lding up, Miss," he answered. "That is, as far as the insects'll allow." "What's the cable, father?" asked Jean. "From you! It seems you're arriving today," he replied. "I call that SERVICE," laughed Jean.

"What's the cable, father?" asked Jean. "From you! It seems you're arriving today," he replied. "I call that SERVICE," laughed Jean.
